Resources of Russia and her Possible Assailant

[From the Cincinnati Gazette]

The threatening aspect of the political horizon in Europe makes it interesting to consider the resources of the nations who may be involved in war through Russia's determination no longer to submit to the obligations of the treaty of Paris England first attracts our attention She has been famous as a naval power, but her land forces have heretofore been to a great degree the subsidized troops of some of the Continental States She can not hire German levies in the struggle which now seems impending During the Crimean war only 500,000 English troops were in the field at any one time There are now a little over 200,000 men on the British muster rolls most of them veterans, but a large proportion of these are needed for garrison duty and colonial protection, and will be still more indispensible for these purposes in the event of war than while peace exists The navy, however is to be England's chief dependence Her defenses are floating ones, consisting of 403 steamers ready for duty, 34 in process of construction and 29 sailing vessels

The Russian army has nominally over a million and a half of men, but not more than a third of these are drilled soldiers Their arms, it is reported, are not generally of the latest improved patterns The Russian navy consists of 263 steamers and 29 sailing vessels Of the former 24 are ironclads, carrying an aggregate of 119 guns

Austria can bring half a million of men into the field, but the financial and mortuary effects of the war of 1866 are still too plainly felt to allow her much vigor for land operations Her navy consists of about forty steamers and twenty sailing vessels mounting, in all, 884 guns The discordant elements which compose this great empire are not so in harmony that a vigorous conscription or protracted struggle would be ventured on by the government, unless the most powerful reasons prevailed.

Italy is badly off financially and just now finds the Papal question about as much as she can manage She can not pay more than half of her nominal army of 350 000 men Her navy numbers 60 steamers and 31 smaller vessels

Should Turkey unite with the other opponents of Russia, as she would have to do, she could call into action 300 000 men, a dozen iron clads and forty or fifty smaller vessels There are reports that the Khedive of Egypt, Turkey's rebellious vassal, is anxious to join Russia against his old master. His troops will number 100,000, but, though brave, they lack the thorough discipline of European troops The same criticism may also be made in regard to a large part of the Turkish contingent

It will be seen by the above figures that none of the powers named are in a good condition for fighting—Russia possibly excepted In this lies the chief hope that peace will be preserved. We have left out of our count Prussia and France. The latter power can do nothing but defend herself, while the former has enough to occupy her attention, even if she had the desire to take a hand in the game apparently about to begin

Hoffman's Chances for the Presidency.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial Nov 28]

Governor Hoffman, of New York gave out in one of his recent speeches that he understood he would be a candidate for the Presidency in 1872 This ingenuous and interesting confession was made upon the appearance of a flag bearing the legend, "President Hoffman."

Hoffman, doubtless, considers his chances better than those of any other man in the Democratic Party which has not for some time been troubled with an overplus of great or popular leaders He has been more successful, politically, in the city and State of New York than any man who has ever been in public life there Six times has he been up for important offices, and on every occasion he has won victory over all adversaries He has just been elected Governor for the second time, by a large majority, and as the Democratic figure-head in the most important State of the Union, it is not surprising or unnatural that he should indulge himself with the pleasing assurance of being the most available Presidential candidate of the Democratic Party

Now we are very desirous that the Democratic candidate, as well as the Republican candidate, in the next campaign, should be an able and honest man Whichever party be successful in the election, we desire to see a man of principle and power in the Executive chair

To Hoffman we must apply the maxim about knowing a man by the company he keeps Hoffman's backers, friends and supporters are the Ring—the basest, greediest, corruptest, most discusting gang of vagabonds that ever obtained political power in any part of the American continent The fame of this vile Ring has gone all over the country and through the world Its bare faced swindling and plundering, its unparalled depravity and and pollution, political and pecuniary, have been heard of everywhere, and have produced feelings of nausea among the decent members of the Democracy, as well as among all other decent people Such name as Tweed, Sweeny, Oakley Hall, Jim Fisk and Connolly would prove ruinous in a national campaign to any candidate whose political and personal interests were identified with them, or who had shown himself to be their tool, or had assisted their corrupt schemes, or helped forward their dishonest aggrandizement It seems to be easy enough for this 'Ring" to manipulate, for their own ends the poor and wretched masses in each feater at the bottom of society in New York city but if they attempted to conduct a Presidential campaign on the "Ring' style, and according to the 'Ring' principles, they would be apt to discover that there is no difference between the denizens of the Five Points and the American people

Within a short time past, Hoffman has, on several occasions, shown something like approbation of the disgust with which the 'Ring surrounding him is regarded by decent people everywhere, and he has made a number of attempts to induce the belief that he would very soon—perhaps during the present winter—make an open war upon the 'Ring" But the 'Ring' know him too well to have any fear of this What would he be without the "Ring?" What political existence would he have? What Presidential prospects, or any other kind of prospects would he have? For it is the 'Ring' which keeps up Tammany Hall, which keeps up the Democratic Party in New York, and it is the New York Democracy which will make the desperate attempt to secure Hoffman's nomination Hoffman has no chance of a nomination without the 'Ring' and it is the Ring which will be a principal agency in destroying his chance of election So we must pass Hoffman over to despair

WAR MISCELLANY

M About had a leading editorial in the Paris Soir which was a cry for peace It has been reprinted, by order of Bismarck, and distributed among the soldiers with a statement that M. About has a villa under the guns of Fort Valerian

A letter from Paris, by balloon, announces that Oscar and Edmund Lafayette, the grandsons of the General, have re-entered the French military service. Both were educated for the army, but were good in 1848, when they began to take an active part in politics Another grandson of Lafayette, Monsieur Jules Lasteyrie, with his son, Louis Lasteyrie, have entered the Garde Mobile, and are among the defenders of Paris

By Overland Telegraph.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO DECEMBER 19.

The Delay in Bombarding Paris.

VERSAILLES, Dec 17 —The delay in the bombardment of Paris is caused partly by a quarrel between Generals Blumenthal and Von Kaen The latter wished to use the army horses to bring up the guns, while the former insisted that it was impossible to spare them Von Roon finally yielded, and 4 000 horses are now coming from Germany to draw siege guns from the railway terminus The condition of the roads is fearful Food is very scarce in the German camps and some troops have gone without meat food for three days

The German Loan

BERLIN Dec 17 —The new loan meets with great success Four times the amount has been subscribed for The greater portion is in bonds, and the remainder in sterling bonds

Russia in reply to the Prussian note in regard to Luxemburg says the king of Holland must disprove the charges brought against the Duchy, or give guarantee that its obligations of neutrality shall not be violated again. If, however, the charges alleged are proved Prussia is justified in annexing the territory

The French were driven from Vendome yesterday The Prussians attacked the French near Longeaux, and drove them into the fortress. The French loss was 200

The military commandant at Tours has been relieved for a precipitate evacuation of the place

French Gunboats Active

LONDON, Dec 17 —French gunboats are cruising between Cherbourg and Havre No Prussians have appeared near either port

French Dispatches

BORDEAUX, Dec 17 —The Prussians did not attack Gen Chanzy yesterday, as was expected The forces under Chanzy have received heavy reinforcements It is now understood that the four Generals commanding the main divisions of the army of the Loire, viz Chanzy, Bourbaki, Jauris and Jaurez Ibrury, have concerted plans for a simultaneous advance, all having been largely reinforced The Germans are retreating all along the valley of the Loire The French Government has dismissed General Solvise from service The charge against him was that he hastily abandoned Tours, leaving behind guns and other war material, though no enemy had appeared near the city The Government, in accordance with law which condemns to death Generals who too hastily surrender their posts, has ordered by decree an inquiry into the capitulation of Strassburg and Metz As regards Gen Uhrich, this proceeding is a mere matter of form, but in Bazaine's case the investigation will be a serious affair

The Prussians now appear to be concentrating near Nicolet to attack Havre The latter place has 500 cannon and a strong garrison, and will be defended to the last.

Another grand review was held here, to day, of new troops going to the front The men gave enthusiastic shouts of "Vive La Republique," as they marched by

Gambetta is still with the army of the Loire

News from Paris.

LONDON, Dec 16 —Special to the Herald — Paris dates to the 13th say the sortie by General Ducrot was satisfactory, and has demonstrated where the Germans are weak Ducrot is confident of his ability to get through the German lines at the proper moment

The active army in the field is in good health and spirits and is well fed Preparations are making for another sortie on a larger scale

Some theaters have reopened

News from Paris up to the 11th is that fresh meat eggs and poultry are gone, but the supply of horse meat will last two months longer, bread, wine and cheese, four months longer, salt meats and salt fish, two months longer. Trochu has taken possession of all the food and wines and the population is now supplied by the military commissariat the same as the soldiers

The reverses at Orleans have not disturbed the equanimity of Palladine His army did good service in depleting the force of the besiegers Every Parisian is armed, and the city can hold out three months longer without great suffering The mortality is large, but not enough to create alarm There are no epidemics and no deaths from starvation or want

Outside works have been pushed forward which had compelled an enlargement of the line of investment, and consequently made the enemy weaker in the field From these works the marksmen command the roads, formerly out of range The German positions have been enormously strengthened but they feel the scarcity of men

The German Position.

VERSAILLES, Dec 16 —The Herald's special German accounts of the recent sorties evade the truth Ducrot was entirely successful as far as he went He held the peninsula of St Maur against the German attempts to recover it, and returned voluntarily after ascertaining the failure of Palladines Ducrot is confident that he could have gone through the line of investment, if Palladines had been successful The German leaders are uneasy on account of their line being weakened and fear the success of a massed sortie.

On the 1st instant Senator Williams and Hon Caleb Cushing made arguments before the Attorney as to the right of railroad which Government aid has been given to transfer their privileges to other companies

An important order will soon be promulgated from the War Department, assigning a large number of officers to regiments There is intense anxiety in army circles to know what names will be embraced in the order

The Chief Clerk of the Treasury Department, Mr J H Saville, is making arrangements which when perfected will enable him to balance his cash accurately every day upon the close of business The arrangements comprehends telegraphic reports from every depository and disbursing office in the United States at three o'clock every day

Several chaplains have applied to the War Department with a view to retirement, under the recent law, but have been unsuccessful, owing to the fact that none but line officers have been sent before the boards for examination From among those who have been thirty years in military service, or incapacitated by reason of wounds or physical disability, the number which can be retired is 300 instead of 114 as hitherto The number of applicants, however, is much larger than can be accommodated Meantime, under the Board of which General Hancock is President some officers will be dropped from the army or allowed to resign on one year's full pay having been retained as the published order to that effect for the service Competent officers unemployed will be appointed to the places thus made vacant

An Englishman who escaped from Paris says a London dispatch of the 6th December writes to the London journals that the supply of horse flesh, excluding the artillery horses, was ample for three or four weeks longer There was, in addition, a supply of salt meat held in reserve, and the surplus of flour and stores when he left were of enormous magnitude The public granaries were crammed with sacks of wheat, and in hundreds of private houses were large quantities of similar stores

POLITICAL NOTES.

The New Hampshire Republicans begin to manifest an inclination for rotation in office at their coming election There is much opposition to the renomination of any of the present Congressmen

The leading Democratic paper in New Hampshire, the Concord Patriot, is scolding those members of its party who are ashamed of the history of its organization, and doubt the soundness and validity of its principles

Read what the Richmond State Journal says "No Republican is safe except in his own house Never since the days of religious fanaticism in Europe—since the abolition of the Spanish inquisition—has there been such intolerance shown in any country as is displayed by the Democracy of the South toward Republicans"

Considerable surprise is expressed at Washington at the election of ex Governor Vance to the United States Senate by the Legislature of North Carolina, to succeed Senator Abbott. Careful examination of the acts of the Thirty ninth and Fortieth Congresses, and of the first session of the Forty second Congress, show that his political disabilities for participating in the rebellion have never been removed, and that it is the general opinion that Congress will certainly refuse to relieve him now, and his admission to the Senate, therefore, is regarded here by Republican Senators as very doubtful It is supposed friends of Governor Vance will urge that he opposed secession until the State of North Carolina was out of the Union, and that during the war he was elected Governor by the people of the State on a platform opposed to the Confederate administration His opponents claim, however, that these facts will have little influence on Congress, since they also remember that, as Governor of North Carolina he was as bitter a rebel as any man in the South

CURRENT NOTES.

Lady Berwick the first white woman who ever lived in Connecticut, was buried in Saybrook more than two hundred years ago, and subsequently a monument was erected over her grave The authorities of the town, a few days ago, removed the monument to accommodate some railroad enterprise, and search was made for the raising of the body. The bones were found, the skull being whole, the teeth well preserved, and about the skull were found remains of hair, which crumbled at the touch

One occasionally hears of the English Mercurie —a copy of which, bearing date of 1588, and containing an account of the Spanish Armada, was discovered by Mr Chalmers—spoken of as the first published in England, but this has been shown to be an ingenious fabrication The first English newspaper was the Weekly News, started by Nathaniel Butler, 1622 The Stamford Mercury was first published in 1695, and has been maintained without interruption for 175 years Its publishers possess the full series for the last 120 years The Birmingham Gazette was established in 1741 and is still published The Morning Herald started in 1780, the Morning Post in 1781, and the Times in 1788

The new steamer Alaska, of the California and China line, which is in course of construction at New York, will, it is expected, be completed and ready to sail some time in January, and when finished will be the finest ocean steamer afloat It is the intention of her owners to send her out via the Mediterranean, Isthmus of Suez, and the Indian ocean, so that her initial trip in the line will be made from Hong Kong to San Francisco, thus making the voyage around the world, with the exception of the distance across the American continent from San Francisco to New York The company propose to extend their route to the principal points in the Indian ocean and China seas, and one of the objects in sending this magnificent vessel by the above route is to show the people of these places what American enterprise and energy can accomplish, and at the same time secure their support for the line

An Unmitigated Scoundrel

[From the Seattle Times]

Last Wednesday evening we paid a visit to a house, in this city where a respectable family has been made desolate, by one of its members being shamefully imposed upon by an unmitigated scoundrel We witnessed a sight which would baffle description To fitly describe this case we must first throw the mantle of charity over outraged chastity and female innocence

About six weeks ago a man came to Seattle from Portland Oregon, but formerly hailed from Montana and hung out a sign with the name of Charles H Beam, M D, on it He represented himself as a graduate of a leading medical college of Germany and late surgeon in the U S Army He sported a stovepipe hat wore kid gloves, white vest, and carried a fancy cane was rigged out in clothes made in the latest and most approved style He put on more airs than a country dancing master, and in a word, had the impudence and effrontery of the Devil Being a German, and of good address, he had but little difficulty in becoming acquainted with some of the best people in the city He was invited to attend a party before he was here a week, and met a young lady there whose name was above reproach, he was love smitten, as people term it and so was the young lady In about two weeks after their first meeting, they were married lawfully so far as the young girl was concerned, but for him sacrilegiously He represented himself as being very rich, but under the plea of receiving remittances from his banker before long, he succeeded in borrowing money from several parties on the day he was married

A few days afterwards he took his new made bride to Victoria and soon after his arrival there he tried to borrow money from several Germans but with little success Soon after he left, the parties who had loaned him money began to make anxious inquiries about his whereabouts and when he should return The cat was soon let out of the bag, and the guilty people telegraphed for her to come back but he intercepted it, he had written for his trunks, which, of course, were never sent to him He was furnished with money by several parties here to pay over when he arrived at Port Townsend, but the money he kept and proved himself a defaulter

The mother and her son went after the idol of their affections last Monday and brought her home on Wednesday, after learning that the so called Dr. Beam had left her alone in a strange city last Saturday, without a dollar in her pocket or a friend All credit is due to Mr Thomas J Burns, of the American Hotel in Victoria Mr and Mrs Harris, and a Mr Bishop, who took pity on the poor woman and done all in their power to console her until her mother arrived to bring her home

His pseudonym, Beam, is about 40 years of age, light mustache, rather dark hair and about five feet eight inches and a half in height and is heavy set He claims to speak French and Italian besides his mother tongue, and very good English

No doubt he is still in British Columbia, but is wanted here trying to get off to Central or South America He is reported to have a wife and three children in Black

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 20, 1870.

Democratic Presidential Candidates.

It is well known that the Democratic party controls the State of New York through an alliance of the Tammany ring with the Erie railway and other powerful corporations. The New York Times notes a movement on the part of Western Democrats to secure the nomination of Mr. Hendricks of Indiana for President in 1872, and says the movement is one of the signs of a revolt against the Tammany-Erie combination. "The Democratic party," continues that paper, "is not over-nice in its nominations or in its policy, as its record proves: but its managers in other parts of the country are shrewd enough to detect the mischief resulting from Tammany's misrule, and from the shameless affiliation of Tammany's puppets in the Executive chair with the swindlers of the Erie Ring. The rural Democracy are not easily frightened, but they cannot stand that. They recognize their hopelessness of a contest with the man who has made himself the abettor of gross frauds as their Presidential candidate, and with men like Tweed, Sweeny, and Fisk, Jr., as his guides and masters. It would be very difficult for any man to win in a race with this pretty trio on his back."

Something over a year ago Gov. Hoffman, at the command of the Erie magnates, approved an act which they had passed through the Legislature, whose design and effect was to put into the pockets of the ring all the profits of the great Erie railway, and leave no dividends for the rest of the Company. This was one of Jim Fisk's brilliant measures. By approving it Gov. Hoffman showed himself the slave and tool of the Erie ring. It was simply an alliance between Tammany and the Erie swindlers. The object on the one side was political power; and on the other, the spoils of an immense, swindling transaction. This combination is what makes New York "Democratic" to-day.

But some of the Democrats of New York have penetration enough to see that it will be impossible for their party to carry the odium of this alliance in a national campaign. The Brooklyn Eagle, a noted Democratic journal, sounds the alarm. It urges Hoffman to cut loose from the ring and "take a stand against the most audacious scoundrelism of the period." It says this must be done or the New York Democrats must give up their leadership; "the Democratic party cannot carry Erie in the Presidential election."

This is one of those spasmodic efforts to be virtuous which sometimes occur, but which amount to nothing. If the Tammany Governor turns his back on the Fisk crowd he can win in New York no longer. He must hold on to them as his only hope. As for the Western Democrats, the New York ring can buy their delegates in the National Convention, as they did in 1864, and again in 1868; and then the Western Democracy will vote for the man whom the New York ring gives them; as they have been accustomed to do heretofore. Such will be the result of these movements, and the end of all will be the election of the Republican candidate for President by the most overwhelming vote.

Subscriptions for the West Side R'y'd

The committee appointed at the citizen meeting on Friday evening to solicit subscriptions for the construction of the west side railroad have commenced the work to which they were appointed, and we learn are meeting with very good success. No one has yet been addressed on the subject who has declared that he would not subscribe to the fund; the chief difficulty so far encountered seems not to be so much a disposition not to aid as to wait until others have subscribed.

Citizens will do well to remember that this proposition is open but for sixty days from the date at which it was made. As an investment it is the best one that those who are interested in the future of Portland have ever met with. To say nothing of the enhancement of the value of property by the building of the road, which this subscription will certainly secure, the city of Portland will within a year get the money back by the great disbursements which will result from the employment of labor and the purchase of materials for the enterprise.

In this view of the case the construction of the road is quite as important to those who do not own real estate but are doing business in the city, as to those who have landed interests and buildings here. Business of every description will be quickened and increased immensely by the enterprise, and a share of the profits thereof will be realized by merchants and tradesmen of every class. It is their interest, therefore, to aid the movement to raise a fund which will make the west side road a certainty. The sum required can be secured without great difficulty, if those who are to profit by the enterprise will pledge themselves to aid it in the proportion in which it will profit them.

We would impress upon the citizens of Portland the necessity of immediate action in this matter. Now is the time to secure a great advantage for this city. Let the west side road be constructed, and it will offer an additional powerful inducement to bring the Northern Pacific here. We confidently believe that the sum required will be pledged, since one cannot suppose that the citizens of Portland would be so strangely regardless of their interests as to let this opportunity to secure a great and important enterprise, slip away.

The President in his message justly says that "Revenue Reform" has not been defined by any of its advocates. There is a reason for this. The so-called revenue reformers are free traders; and free trade is the philosophy of utopian theories. Hence the advocates of what is denominated revenue reform deal mainly in vague and general declamation; and their arguments, (such as they are), they cannot fortify by experimental proof or support by acknowledged facts. They do not show what practical results can be accomplished by their movement, and when they concede that the debt is not to be repudiated and that the Government must have a large annual revenue from customs to meet the interest account as well as the ordinary current expenses, they yield to the whole case and show that there is no need for the "new party" which they proposed to organize.

A Washington dispatch says that members of Congress have begun to figure on the new apportionment on the basis of the new census, now nearly completed. So many states are averse to losing representation, that it is highly probable the number of Representatives in the House will be increased to 275. Anything under that figure, it is claimed, will make even such States as Ohio lose a portion of their weight in the Electoral College and in the National Assembly, while New York and Pennsylvania would experience a heavy decrease. Taking the population of the country at thirty-nine millions, it is found that, with 275 as the quotient, the only States that would lose Representatives would be Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine. These figures seem to be those pretty generally agreed upon as to the number to constitute the next Congress.

Senator Robertson (Rep.) is re-elected to the United States Senate from South Carolina. Judge Goldthwaite, (Dem.) is elected Senator from Alabama. A canvass of the Illinois Legislature shows that a majority of the members are in favor of Gen. Logan for Senator.

The President and McGarrahan:

General Spinner, United States Treasurer, writes as follows to the New York Evening Post:

As the President understands the matter, McGarrahan claims that a patent should be issued to him on his paying the usual price fixed for government lands for agricultural purposes, because he had heretofore paid a valuable consideration for the same to a person, as he claims, acting under Mexican authority; but which conveyance it now turns out, was made by an irresponsible clerk in the Mexican Land Office, after California had come into the possession of the United States; and that he ante-dated it, and forged to it the signature of the person who had formerly, under the Mexican Government, been authorized to sign land grants.

This gives McGarrahan, in the opinion of the President, no legal right to claim a patent for the land at his hands. He, therefore, as a precautionary measure, directed that his name should not be signed for him by his Secretary to such grant, without his special consent thereto.

Now this, you will see, was aimed at the McGarrahan claim, and originally at that only. And yet, in every article in the Evening Post on this subject, it is either stated in express terms, or so put that no other inference can be drawn therefrom, that the President objected to the issuing of a patent to the New Idria Company because he favored the McGarrahan claim. Now, nothing can be further from the truth than such a charge, or such an inference. The New Idria Company claims priority of right to a patent, under a law in regard to mineral lands of the State of California; and hopes to obtain at a nominal price this very valuable mineral land, that has cost the United States hundreds of thousands of dollars to defend against the McGarrahan claim. But it is hardly worth while to enter upon the reasons why this company is not entitled to a patent for the land: it is enough to say that the President has all along thought and still thinks, that neither party has a right to demand a patent, and he doubts whether either of the parties has any valid claim to the land. He believes that the land is still the property of the United States, and as he believes it to be worth many millions of dollars, he thinks Congress should pass a law for its profitable disposal for the benefit of the people of the United States. Upon this belief the President has acted throughout the various transactions relating to the claim.

Military Turkey.

The Fremdenblatt, of Vienna, gives an account "from a military source," of the present condition of the Turkish Army, which has a special interest now that a conflict between Russia and Turkey is threatening. It says that those who have watched for the last few years the development of the organization of the Turkish army, and seen its various corps in action and en rentge, have come to the conclusion that it has become quite equal to any troops that Russia could bring against it. Even in 1853 and 1854, the Russians were unable to gain any decisive victory over the Turks, and since then the military administration of the Porte has fully taken advantage of every modern improvement. All the field batteries have rifled guns, and the principal fortresses and harbors are armed with heavy breech-loading cannon. The whole of the infantry, cavalry, and scientific corps are provided with Sniders, and the artillery with five-barreled revolvers. The reserve (redif) and militia have as yet only had Minie rifles, but they will also be armed with Sniders shortly. Another important element of the new system the education of officers, has been thoroughly attended to, and the military academies now furnish yearly about 120 officers, who are employed partly on the staff, partly in the various corps of the army. The old plan of employing foreigners as officers, which did not work well, has now been abandoned, and their places are occupied by natives who, by a thorough course of study, both at home and abroad, have made themselves masters of the latest improvements in the art of war. The relations between officers and men are still on a sort of patriarchal footing, which, however, is rather an advantage when combined with the excellent discipline which is now preserved in all the branches of the army. The non-commissioned officers, too, have great influence and authority, and considerable privileges have lately been granted in order to induce them to remain in the service. The clothing in the army is very comfortable and practical, and the knapsacks are reduced to the lowest possible weight; the cavalry is admirably mounted, and the artillery wagons are everything that the most exacting soldier can desire. As for the men, they form almost as good material for an army as any that can be found in Europe. Patient, obedient and intelligent, they endure hardships of every kind without a murmur, and are exceedingly skilful and quick in all military manœuvers. The only point in which they may prove inferior to European troops, is that they are unaccustomed to sharp-shooting, and prefer fighting hand to hand. Taking them altogether, the writer holds that the Turkish troops may, as far as quality is concerned, await with calmness a Russian attack. Nor could Russia bring into the field a much stronger force than Turkey as regards numbers; for her huge territory and domestic requirements compel her to keep a large army at home, and Turkey, even without a Landwehr or the contingents of allies, can dispose of a force of 350,000 men, 50,000 horses, and 900 guns, to say nothing of her fleet, which is more numerous, and at least as efficient, as that of Russia, and is under the command of an able and experienced leader.

England's Family Alliances.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

England suffers from entangling alliances of divers kinds. Traditions of foreign policy impose on her rulers the espousal of Turkey's pretensions as against the designs of Russia. She protests, and, in certain not improbable circumstances, must make up her mind to fight. A just regard for her own interests requires no such sacrifice. There is nothing in Turkey, its institutions or its people, that other Powers should be perpetually on the verge of troubles on its account, and there is nothing in the aversion of Russia to the Paris treaty that should induce England to threaten war as the alternative or continued subjection to the terms of the treaty. Turkey is not an ally worth fighting for on every trumpery occasion, nor is Russia so inimical to the interests of mankind that its progress should be watched so suspiciously, and resented at the cost of bloodshed and devastation.

Bad as these entanglements are, they are creditable compared with others which have grown up under Victoria's reign. The "balance of power" is a fiction, but at least it touches the national pride. Russophobia is a species of insanity, but at any rate it implies the pluck and the instincts of patriotism. The Queen's family alliances have nothing of this sort to palliate them. It should be enough that the over-taxed English people are compelled to make lavish donations, and to pay liberal annuities to every little Princess who goes abroad to married, and to every beggarly princeling whom Victoria chooses for a son-in-law. But the thing is not allowed to end here. These family relationships very seriously influence concerns of State. England's most trusty ally was sacrificed rather than that "our dear Fritz" should be offended. The whole brood of the late Prince Consort's relatives are more potent at Windsor, than the genuine exponents of English feeling, which is outraged continually by the Queen's interference in State affairs, whenever German interests are touched, however tenderly. When a strong word might have done much to avert from France the suffering which has overtaken it, and the humiliation which seems to be in store, Victoria was averse to its utterance. In the solitude of Balmoral she sought relief from the responsibilities of her position. When Russia constitutes itself the friend of Germany, and flings defiance in the face of England, the Queen's zeal in behalf of sons-in-law, and cousins, impels her to interfere actively in opposition to the policy foreshadowed in the Granville dispatch. "Under no circumstances shall there be war," is the maxim with which the lady who occupies the English throne is credited. National humiliation may be the result of royal selfishness. The peace-at-any-price politicians are strengthened, and all Europe is notified that the Queen's family connections have more to do with England's foreign policy than her advisers or the people in whose name they speak.

This condition of affairs will not endure forever. If England is wise she will not plunge into war with Russia for the sake of Turkey; but the decision, to be respected, must reflect the intelligent judgment of the nation—not the will of a Sovereign who cares for nothing but her precious family and their connections. The commercial policy of the last twenty years has not added to England's influence in the councils of Europe. If, now, the Queen be suffered to make private and personal feeling the standard of the nation's policy in foreign affairs, what will be England's position ten years hence?

The Northern Pacific Railway.

At the eastern end of the Northern Pacific Railway work is being prosecuted with vigor. The Minneapolis Tribune of Nov. 12th says of the progress making:

Track laying on the Northern Pacific Railroad is still progressing west of the Junction, and will continue as fast as possible all winter. Twenty-five miles are now laid. Grading, of course, is progressing uninterruptedly beyond the end of the track, and from the Mississippi west on the Western Division. There are about three thousand men employed along the line, and the force is increasing every day. Sixty miles have been graded west from the Junction. At the close of this month one hundred miles of grading will be finished and forty miles of track laid. There are parties of engineers at work constantly between the Red river and the Missouri, making surveys, profiles and locations; and from the Pacific ocean eastward the great work is being mapped and profiled preparatory to construction. The most remarkable feature of the work on the Northern Pacific Railroad will be that it will not cease all winter. The contract calls for the completion of the road by July 1st, and there is little doubt, judging from the rapidity of construction thus far, that the road will finished within the contract time.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS
MILL FURNISHING GOODS, WOOD-WORKING
MACHINERY,

RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING, FARM WAGONS, GRASS SEEDS, ETC., ETC.

The particular attention of the Farming Community is called to our recent importation of Improved MOLINE PLOWS, greatly superior to many other Moline Plows in the Market, notwithstanding a certain firm, somewhat noted for truth and veracity—"so-called"—persist in asserting that they are "bogus," "California made," etc.

Don't fail to call and look at one of the MOLINE PLOW Co's LATEST MAKE; and we think you will coincide with a Yamhill Farmer; who, after "looking 'round" and hearing the old story about bogus Molines, etc., delivered himself thusly: "Well, Myers, I'll just chance a couple of those new plows, and if they are 'bogus,' as that gassy chap above here says, I'll be—afraid if I won't take bogus in mine every time."

Next month we expect another shipment of those justly celebrated BAIN WAGONS, (Have now only a few left of the last lot,) STILL FURTHER IMPROVED over all heretofore received. It is not presumption on our part to say that they are second to none above any other Farm wagon in market for [illegible] work—handy and finish, having achieved a reputation throughout the West, and wherever introduced on the Pacific, second to no other wagon. Some of the first sold here—three years ago,—have never yet had a tire set, and our experience has enabled us to order many changes and improvements over the ordinary make of western wagons to meet the wants and requirements of this coast. We shall sell the BAIN WAGON at the lowest possible price for a first-class wagon, and WARRANT them such, and in this connection beg to caution purchasers not to confound them with "inferior makes" that others are, or may endeavor to sell on the strength of the established reputation of the Bain manufacture, particularly after having made repeated and persistent efforts (without avail) to purchase wagons of Mr. Bain for this market.

SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 20, 1870.

CITY.

ISAAC BARGMAN.—This noted criminal was taken to Salem on Sunday and delivered to the Warden at the State Penitentiary. On the way down here, he stoutly denied that he was in Portland last summer, and swore roundly that he had never been within three hundred miles of this city, or brought here from Yreka, except as he was brought part of the way along the coast to California. Upon arriving at the Salem depot he was placed in a carriage in charge of Deputy-Sheriff Reynolds got in to accompany him to the Penitentiary. Reynolds knew him at once, and says, "Hallo, Bargman, is that you?" or something to that effect. Bargman replied, recognizing Reynolds, and making no further attempt to deny that he was known or had been seen by Reynolds. The latter had seen him at Salem, and if we recollect rightly had spoken to him about it while trying to arrest him. Reynolds then said to Bargman, "The last time I saw you you was sitting in ——'s saloon," to which Bargman assented. Mr. Bills then remarked, "How is this? You have been telling me and others that you never had been within three hundred miles of Portland!" Bargman replied with a laugh, "Well, Mr. Bills, that's all right," with which explanation he thought it was a smart affair all round.

IMPERIAL AGITATION.—The Puget Sound Echo, under the head of "All in a Quiver," says: "We have seen the inhabitants of a populous village turn pell-mell from their beds into the street by the premonitory throes of a midnight earthquake; we have participated in the apprehensions that bided the time between two earthquake shocks; we have seen a young lady's face on the eve of her marriage; we have heard a great many terrible things, but never an occasion to compare with the nervousness of our people at the present time, all on account of that awful malady—Terminus! We have read recently that when the plague in an Eastern city had so far abated that the living could hastily bury their dead, the solemn sound of a bell was heard announcing the fact and the bell was again once more go forth to greet their ears. When shall the people of Olympia hear the bell in joyful announcement that the terrible epidemic is so far abated that we may safely salute our neighbors and receive same in return?" Echo does not answer.

PROHIBITION.—We understand that Van Tassel has been known as the "Hungry Broth-er," but he was always really more thirsty than hungry, has joined the Good Templars of this city, and fraternally succeed with him they will be a vote of the public thanks. An-other convert to the temperance party is Mrs. Props, who has been so often fined for drunken and disorderly conduct, on the other day, before his honor, Judge Caples agreed to let her off if she would take the Templar's obligation. Mr. Caples was not to be declined on the legal ground of want of jurisdiction in the matter to the satisfaction of the parties. Finally Mr. Beal, G. W. C. T., took the matter to the satisfaction of the court. Madam Props was duly sworn under the — banner. Good luck to the reformation.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The gentlemen appointed by the committee appointed to canvass the citizens to the railroad, have got to work and report a disposition on the part of such citizens as they have called upon which augurs well, and to be general among the property holders of the city. It is known, to begin with, that a man cannot raise $100,000. It is a task to raise in a city of 10,000 inhabitants, by subscriptions alone. It will be necessary for every public spirited man to give just what he can possibly stand, and the movement in favor of the subscription must be general or it will not be raised. Let every man put his best foot and act accordingly.

INDIANS.—The residents of the Dalles complain that the Indians are camped down toward the slaughter house, making it a nightly practice to come into the city and go home at all hours of the morning and howling drunk. Quite a number of times recently, such Indians have made disturbances which could be heard all over the upper part of the city; and a few instances have occurred lately where Indians have been seen reeling and howling along the streets in broad daylight. There is evidently some proper business for a grand jury to do, as somebody in the employ of the city is guilty of selling liquor to Indians, an offense for which the penalty is a fine.

[illegible].—Mr. A. B. Markham, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, was in this city yesterday, having come down to take the Cascade boat this morning for Dalles and Umatilla. He was en route to the latter point on a visit to the Umatilla Indians next week, and thence to Washington City, where he has been ordered for the purpose of conferring with the Department of the Interior in relation to the Indian policy of the Government on the Columbia river having just closed a treaty with the Indians. He will not be able to go that way, and we understand will return home and go immediately to Skowhegan and thence to Washington.

COLUMBIA CLOSED.—Navigation of the Columbia above the Cascades and Dalles was closed on Friday. The telegraph informed the people here that the Idaho came down to the Cascades yesterday morning, but it was thought doubtful about her being able to get back again, as it was reported that the floating ice was running heavily in the morning, had choked the river at Craig's Point, a few miles below the Dalles. We did not hear whether the Idaho effected a passage through it last evening. There will be no more steamboat communication with the Dalles till after a general thaw.

[illegible].—A note from Miss Annie Pix-ley, dated Dec. 10, gives information that the party expected to arrive at Portland in about ten days. To-day, the 20th, is the expiration of the time mentioned, and they may therefore be here this evening by the Monticello boat. Pixley says they have made a successful tour, and the newspaper notices of them, confirm the statement. It is expected that soon after their arrival here, they will again appear before the Portland public, probably in connection with a new play.

A REMARKABLE STEER FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Yesterday we saw a noble looking steer in front of Daly's Swan Island market, which upon inquiry, we found to be intended for slaughter during the holidays. He is a six year old Durham, weighing 2,800 pounds, rounded and fat as the most fastidious could desire. A roast from that noble animal would be a thousand times more delectable than dry, tasteless turkey, about which people are unable to make so much ado, on feasting occasions.

ICE.—The steamers from the Columbia report that slush ice is running heavily; but that they are able to make their way through it. In the river has closed above the Cascades, they will be, hereafter, less slush running, and it is probable that the navigation of the lower Columbia will be uninterrupted.

LITERARY MEETING.—There will be a general literary meeting at the Council Chamber on Friday evening next, to discuss the proposition to build a railroad for the west side railroad. There should be a full attendance of all persons interested in the prosperity of the city, whether willing or unwilling to subscribe.

CASE OF CASSIDY.—Cassidy the third of the men indicted for the robbery of Mr. English's store at East Portland, will be tried to-day in the Circuit Court. The trial was put off yesterday in consequence of the indisposition of Judge Thurston, one of the prisoner's counsel.

SOCIAL PARTY.—There will be a social dance this evening at the American Exchange hotel, to which the friends of the proprietors are generally invited. Quimby and Perkins always manage to render these little affairs at their house remarkably enjoyable and pleasant.

FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold a festival in the basement of their church, Friday evening, Dec. 23d. There will be vocal and instrumental music in attendance.

TO BE SENTENCED.—Charley Burch and Jos. Lindsey, convicted of grand larceny, will be sentenced this morning, in the Circuit Court.

[illegible] who interviewed the beavers has returned to his notes and now concludes that there will be a pretty fair ice crop this season.

THE ARREST OF J. K. BAER.

HOW IT WAS DONE AND WHAT FOR—THE EMBEZZLEMENT NOT HIS FIRST CRIME.

Jacob K. Baer is the real name of the man who was arrested last Saturday at Oregon City and taken below on the steamer. The crime for which he was arrested was committed at Brownsville, Nebraska, and the requisition came from the Governor of that State instead of Nevada, as before stated in the papers. The embezzlement was perpetrated in August, 1869, and the property taken was from the United States Express Co. It consisted of $15,307 in money and valuable packages in transit, and valuable packages on hand uncalled for, known in express parlance as "on hand packages." In reality "the crime was equivalent to a robbery, as he took the packages clandestinely from the office and ran away in the night. After dodging around under an assumed name, not stopping long anywhere, he came here about nine months ago; went very soon to Victoria, and returned to this city five or six months since. Mr. Mills, the Superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co's office in this city, having had information of the robbery and a description of the man, got on his track very soon after his second arrival here, and kept him constantly under surveillance till the day of his arrest. Wishing to secure some portion of the embezzled treasure, Mr. Mills waited a long time for Baer to display his ill gotten booty. Finally, about a month ago, finding that Baer had on deposit a considerable sum of money, he telegraphed to Henry Kip, the general agent of the United States Express Co. at Omaha, and Ed. M. Moysman was sent out with a requisition for Baer's arrest. Moysman came under an assumed name, and the first intimation Baer had of danger was the service of the warrant for his arrest. Baer at the time of the embezzlement was the Co's agent at Brownsville. A short time before he had got up a robbery on his own account, which, for a time, was quite a sensation. He had the duty to perform of conveying to the cars, the express packages sent away every day. This was done early in the morning, before daylight. Having one morning a valuable treasure express, he threw it out of the wagon, at a convenient lonely place, jumped out of the wagon, shot himself in the arm with a pistol, scared the horse, making him run away, and then rushed back, reporting himself robbed and shot by footpads. He was laid up with a lame arm for a few days, and then went back to his employment in the office. Meantime, or on the morning of the pretended robbery, he took the treasure box and buried it. At first, it was generally believed that he had really been robbed, but it has since been discovered that he himself was the only robber engaged in the transaction. The money obtained by this performance was no part of the sum with which he finally ran away and for which he is now under arrest. Baer, at that time, had a young wife at Brownsville, Nebraska, who has since procured a divorce from him—a fact of which he was not aware. Circumstances have been developed in the investigations that have been prosecuted which show that not only the embezzlement, but the robbery above mentioned, were the premeditated acts of a villain. We got this information from a gentleman who has full knowledge of all the facts.

THE COURTS.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATRE.—There were two pieces played at Oro Fino last evening—"Guy Mannering" and "The Honeymoon. We saw but a portion of the first play, but enough of it to be persuaded that the Meg Merriles of Walter Scott was reproduced by Mrs. Bates with a fine conception of the great author's idea. Mr. Bates' Dandie Dinmont was another excellent conception, and Mr. Vinson made a "prodigious" success of Dominie Sampson. The other characters were well sustained. The Honeymoon is a play in which all were much at home, and we can, even though not present, avouch for a good performance of it.

TO-NIGHT.—This evening the beautiful comedy of "The Lady of Lyons" will be presented with an excellent cast at Oro Fino Theater.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF OREGON CITY.

DECEMBER 21, 1870.

The Board of health met in the Court room. Present—Dr. Barclay, Chairman; Dr. Saffarans, W. W. Buck.

Dr. Barclay reported that there were no indications of any new cases of smallpox in Mr. Dodge's family, and that Mrs. Dodge who had had an attack of varioloid had completely recovered.

It was resolved that Dr. Barclay be requested to call at the residence of Mrs. Dodge and make further examination as to the condition of his family, and desire him to have thoroughly washed all the clothes or materials used during his wife's illness with the smallpox, and also to fumigate the house and furniture.

It was further resolved that the City Marshal be instructed to open the alley now closed on account of the smallpox.

The Secretary is directed to send a copy of these proceedings to each of the daily papers of Portland, and to the Enterprise of this city.

The Board adjourned to meet on Thursday at 11 o'clock

S. D. POPE,
Secretary Board of Health.

MASONIC.—The Wallamet Lodge No. 2, F. and A. M., have elected the following officers: B. T. Goodman, W. M.; H. L. Hoyt, S. W.; Thomas Mann, J. W.; G. H. Flanders, Treasurer; S. Pennoyer, Secretary; A. P. DeLin, Tyler. Installation to take place on St. John's day, 27th inst.

On the 8th inst. the Portland R. A. Chapter, No. 3, elected the following officers: J. McCraken, M. E. H. P.; J. B. Congle, K.; A. G. Walling, S.; C. H. Lewis, C. of H.; P. C. Schuyler, Jr., P. S.; H. Saxer, R. A. C.; M. A. King, G. M. of 3d V.; C. F. Weigand, G. M. of 2d V.; W. W. Francis, G. M of 1st V., J. C. Ainsworth, Treasurer; B. F. Goodwin, Secretary, A. P DeLin, Sentinel. The installation is to take place January 12, 1871.

Mr. B. L. Stone wishes to say to his friends and patrons that he has on hand a lot of the celebrated August Saltzman Gold Watches, for ladies and gentlemen, which he will sell at a very low price.

Persons who buy these elegant watches will do well to avail themselves of this opportunity.

OPEN IN THE EVENING.—To accommodate our city retail trade, we will keep open until 9 o'clock during the present week.

W. JACKSON & CO.
Portland, December 20, 1870

At C. M. MARTIN'S GROCERY STORE, 145 First street, you can get fresh New Jersey Cranberries, as large as cherries, just received by Pacific Express.

Also California Grapes, Oranges, and all fruits of the season, fresh and delicious.

Also a Splendid Assortment of Fresh Vegetables and Groceries, including Fresh Butter, Eggs and fine old Cheese.

Also all kinds of Game and fat Poultry.

He keeps nothing but the BEST ARTICLES for his customers.

Why is it that Kohn & Fichel keep the largest supply of Clothing in this city?

Because their sales require it.

Why can they afford to sell cheaper than any other house?

Because they buy in large quantities and get them cheaper, and because they are satisfied with small profits and quick returns, which system has brought them an enormous trade, and made them first in their business in the city.

December is here, with her storms and her rain,
And it makes the folks of cold weather complain.
Hark ye, dear gentlemen, this need not be so,
You can all be kept warm, for O'NEIL & CO.
Can fit you so nicely, so snug and so warm,
With CLOTHES that are proof 'gainst the bitterest storm,
And they sell them so cheaply, that all who go there,
Unless Flora McFlimsey, can find something to wear.

If you wish to buy or rent Farms or City Property call on HARRISH & ATKINSON, Corner of Front and Alder streets, Portland, Oregon.

From G. J. J. Colburn, Doctor of Dental Surgery, Newark, N. J.

The popular dentrifice known as Sozodont, besides being a very pleasant addition to the toilet, contains ingredients that, if used according to the directions, will prove of the greatest utility to the health of the mouth and teeth.

A Distressing Cough causes the friends of the sufferer as much pain as the sufferer himself. Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will certainly cure the night sweats, colds, arrest Consumption, and that speedily. When did it ever fail?

A DRAWING-ROOM CHAT.—The following conversation took place in the drawing-room of a mansion on Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, one pleasant afternoon, about ten days ago. (Two ladies, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Knight had just dropped in for a morning call on Mrs. Rapelje, the lady of the house.)

Mrs. M.—My dear Mrs. Rapelje are you sick? You look quite delicate.

Mrs. R.—No; not sick, exactly, but suffering from debility and dreadfully nervous. Do you know, I could cry this minute.

Mrs. L.—Too much excitement, I'm afraid.

Mrs. R.—Perhaps. But what can one do? In the gay season, one must give parties and attend them.

Mrs. M.—I suppose so. Fashion is law—more's the pity. But you must take something to tone your system or you'll break down.

Mrs. R.—I hate medicine! But you shall prescribe for me. What would you advise?

Mrs. M.—Well; I'll tell you my plan. Whenever I'm nervous, or hysterical, or have a headache, or am atall out of sorts, I take a couple of tablespoonfuls of PLANTATION BITTERS once or twice a day for a week or so, and it invariably brings me round.

Mrs. R.—I do the same thing with the same pleasant result. I have implicit faith in that article.

Mrs. B.—Well, ladies, on your recommendation, I'll try it.

The Whole Story.

Oh yes—I'll tell you the story,
The very words that were said.
You see the supper was cooking,
And I was sliding some bread
And Richard came into the pantry,
His face was exceedingly red.

And he opened his half-shut fingers,
And gave me a glimpse of a ring.
And then—oh yes, I remember,
The kettle began to sing,
And Fanny came in with her baby,
The cunningest bundle of a thing.

And the biscuits were out in a minute—
Well, what came next? Let me see—
Oh! Fanny was there with her baby,
And we all sat down to tea,
And Grandma looked over her glasses
So queer at Richard and me.

But it wasn't till after milking
That he said what he had to say,
How was it? Oh! Fanny had taken
The baby and gone away—
The funniest rogue of a fellow—
He had a new tooth that day

We were standing under the plum-tree,
And Richard said something low,
But I was tired and flustered,
And trembled, I almost know;
For old Bad is the hardest of milkers,
And Brindle so horrible slow.

And then—let me see—where was I?
Oh! the stars grew thick overhead,
And we two stood under the plum-tree
Till the chickens flew up to bed.
Well, he loves me, and we're to be married,
And that is—about what he said!

—H. L. Bostwick in Hearth and Home.

Daily Life at Versailles.

Some particulars about the daily life of the King of Prussia and Count Bismarck at Versailles are given in a letter from that town, dated October 25th, which says:

The King of Prussia has taken the Prefecture for his residence. Generally on Thursdays and Saturdays the King goes hunting, taking his departure in an open carriage with four horses, preceded by a platoon of dragoons galloping 200 metres in advance as scouts. In the evening the game which has been killed is distributed among the troops of the Guard, with the exception of what is reserved for the King's table. Many of the soldiers sell what comes to their share, so that we are well supplied with hares and venison. Meat and butter are both at an exorbitant price; poultry is abundant, and the consumption much larger than that of butcher's meat, which is often requisitioned for the army and seized at the butchers' shops.

Count Bismarck resides at the Impasse Matheusseron. I have only once seen him—in the park, on an occasion when the band was playing. He never abandons his cuirassier uniform except when he is in his work-room installed in the office of the Secretary-General of the Prefecture. From 5 o'clock P. M. he may be seen from a distance, walking, that the Minister is at work; it is said that at this time that shadows may be seen gliding along the walls and ringing the bell discreetly, after a fashion peculiar to the Minister's hotel.

There are the spies arriving from Paris with the reports and the newspapers.

At 6 o'clock all the Minister had terminated a work, a portion of his courier, and worked at the affairs of the day. Relieved of the cares of State Count de Bismarck can assume throughout the evening the unconcern and indifference that are depicted in his countenance. Generally, in the afternoon, he makes an excursion of a few miles on horseback, sometimes venturing further with pedestrians would recommend.

The band continually plays in the park, and, as music, certainly may be said of the superiority of the Prussians in artillery, in matters of music it would be difficult to find their equals. The audiences is composed mostly of the demi-monde, who flock to Versailles in the wake of the army; and some of the Guard are full of attentions to them. Besides this portion of the public, there may be seen many parasites, of both sexes, arrived from Berlin, under the pretext of nursing some imaginary wounded relation, but who in reality have come as spectators to witness the bombardment of Paris. These persons crowd the cafés, hotels and restaurants, and squares. Nothing is more exasperating than the presence of these liars who make a party of pleasure of this disastrous war. During last week there were at least a dozen persons of eminence—kings, princes and reigning grand dukes—who have come to salute their King William, shall be crowned Emperor of Germany. A grand review was held in honor on the evening of October 20th, on which occasion the old king gave a dinner which lasted till midnight. The whole facade of the Prefecture was brilliantly illuminated. Four cuirassiers of the Guard, giants in size, guarded the entrance. We heard the cannon roaring on the side of Paris in protest, in its deep, sonorous tones, and thus foreign saturnalia on the soil of a country in mourning.

A SERIOUS DEMAND.—A Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal writes:

The new treaty will soon have to act upon another demand made by Africans recaptured from a slaver, who will ask to be restored to their native land. Many will remember the excitement caused throughout the country in 1859, during the administration of President Buchanan, by the capture off the coast of the United States cruiser of a vessel called the Wanderer, then on her way from Africa with a cargo of negroes. The condition of these poor creatures was such that the captain of the cruiser felt it his duty to put into Savannah, which was the nearest port. Mr. Buchanan telegraphed, when he heard of the capture, to have the slaver brought at once to some Northern port, but before his orders reached Savannah a lawless gang of the Wanderer, took the negroes on shore, and sent them off toward the Gulf of Mexico, and distributing them that the feeble efforts of democratic officials to recover them were unavailing. Indeed, the South was rather proud of the exploit, which was announced as the commencement of the importation of Africans, so that every white Southerner might at a low figure become a slave owner. Nothing more was heard of the Wanderer's cargo of Africans until Rev. R. D. Phillips, a missionary of the Southern Baptist Convention in Youba, in Central Africa, having returned after twelve years' service to revisit his friends, was one Sabbath morning addressing a congregation of colored people at Mobile, Alabama. Speaking of his mission and of the people of Africa, he repeated the Lord's prayer in Youbian to illustrate the character of their language. A little group in the back of the church at once broke out into a shout of delight, which was mistaken for religious enthusiasm by the preacher until the close of the service, when they came thronging around him, and addressed him in their African tongue. They told him they were a part of the Wanderer's cargo, abducted at Savannah, described how they were first kidnapped in their own country by the Dahomies, when on a trading expedition, and sold to the Captain of the Wanderer. Since the war they have gathered themselves into a little community in Alabama, have become Christians, and are doing well, but they desire to be sent back to their native land that they may meet their families and be useful to their people. The question now arises whether the former laws relating to the restoration of captured slaves relates to these people. Humanity certainly speaks for them, and although they have been emancipated, it is to be hoped that they will be returned to the homes from whence they were stolen.

THE HABITS OF CENTENARIANS.—Annibal Carnaix, who died aged 121, and who figures in a picture of Horace Vernet's, was a hard drinker and a great eater. The surgeon, Polotinan, who died at 140 and who, the evening before his death, operated with great success for cancer, got drunk every night. The peasant woman Obat, who died at 155, and who worked in the fields till the last, took two glasses of brandy daily. Hence it might be inferred that drinking prolonged life. But, on the other hand, Elenor Spicer, who lived to be 121; Grandet, who lived to 120, and Jane Effingham, who died at 144, never tasted spirituous liquors. Denis Gnignard, who died at 123, resided in a limestone cavern. Drahakemberg, who lived to be 146, was taken in his youth, by corsairs, and for fifteen years endured all the hardships of captivity. Jean Lafitte, who died at 136, from his earliest youth bathed two or three times a week, and preserved this habit throughout life. Jean Cansour, who died at 137, lived on the produce of his dairy. Jean d'Outegro, who died at 146, lived on maize and cabbage. Thomas Parr, who died at 152, lived on bread, old cheese, milk, whey, and small beer. Lastly Pierre Lorton, who died as it is said, at 185, lived solely on vegetables.

GREAT FALLS OF THE VICTORIA NILE.—Sir Samuel W. Baker, in his very interesting account of The source of the Nile, gives the following beautiful description of the Murchison Falls "Upon rounding the corner, a magnificent sight burst suddenly upon us. On either side of the river were beautifully wooded cliffs rising abruptly to the height of about three hundred feet, rocks were jutting out from the intensely green foliage, and rushing through a gap that cleft the rock exactly before us, the river, contracted from a grand stream, was pent up in a narrow gorge of scarcely fifty yards in width, roaring furiously through the rock-bound pass, it plunged in one leap of about one hundred and twenty feet perpendicular into a dark abyss below. The fall of water was snow white, which had a superb effect as it contrasted with the dark cliffs that walled the river, while the graceful palms of the tropics and wild plantains perfected the beauty of the view. Thus was the greatest waterfall of the Nile, and in honor of the distinguished President of the Royal Geographical Society, I named it the Murchison Fall, as the most important object throughout the entire course of the river."

CITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Ordinance No. 912:

AN ORDINANCE REQUIRING A BOND FROM the City Surveyor.

The city of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. That the City Surveyor, before entering upon the duties of his office, and within ten days after the approval of this ordinance, shall execute a Bond to the city of Portland in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable in U. S. gold or silver coin, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by His Honor the Mayor, conditioned that he will well and faithfully perform the duties of his office as City Surveyor.

Section 2. The parties who shall become sureties as before mentioned shall be required to file with the Mayor an affidavit to the effect that said sureties are worth in the aggregate over and above all debts and liabilities, and exclusive of property exempt from execution, at least double the amount of the penal bond.

Passed the Common Council December 14, 1870.
W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.

Approved Dec. 16, 1870.

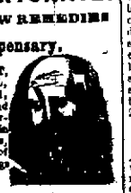
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Bubo, Chancre, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and the public requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are enfeebled in mind and body in consequence from the effects of secret indulgence or from a disease contracted in the system! Look at their pale, sunken and bloodless faces! Look at their confused ideas, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation, thousands are far advanced to the verge of the grave, parents, guardians, friends, attend to these unfortunates suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who for certainty in curing the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the name of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be thereby careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Weakness, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of horrible symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, darkness under the eyes, pallid lips, nervous, timid, and easily startled, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by this new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and permanent cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

LAND DEPARTMENT

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22, 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminus with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Ft. Klamath, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead rights to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary, he can sell the land or mortgage it, he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is ticketed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.
